

HERDADE
ALDEIA DE CIMA

Press release - november 2024

Myndru – The ancestral roots of the Alentejo on St. Martin's Day

At the Herdade Aldeia de Cima, Myndru are wines of memory and ancestry, that represent the texture of an ancient Alentejo, which reflect the indigenous grape varieties of the Serra do Mendro.

In this elevated zone of the Alentejo region, we can sense the Atlantic breeze, which shapes the identity of the Herdade Aldeia de Cima's wines.

Myndru are rare wines, produced in very small quantities, using a traditional winemaking process, that dates back to practices preserved over the ages: with fermentation and vinification in organic containers (clay bowls and Cocciopesto amphorae). They offer an authentic experience to share with friends on St Martin's Day.

Myndru White 2022 is an absolutely new wine and only 1400 bottles have been produced. It is born from a blend of Roupeiro and Perrum grapes, with a hint of Alvarinho grapes, that were aged for 16 months in 1000-litre Cocciopesto amphorae. The Roupeiro and Perrum grapes provide delicate, round tannins - reflecting the language of the local terroir and the sun of the Alentejo. While the terroir endows texture, the sun brings a distinctive aromatic freshness. This unique wine exudes elegance, fluidity, minerality and gravity.

Rating: 18 Pts Revista Grandes Escolhas | 92 Pts and Highly Recommended, Revista Vinhos| 92 Pts Público/Fugas.

Myndru Red 2021, with 2,000 bottles produced, is made from Alfrocheiro, Tinta Grossa and Baga grapes, with 70% aged for 14 months in 1,000-litre Cocciopesto amphorae and 30% aged for 6 months in 150-litre Terracota Tinajas.

The wine has soft and juicy tannins, with striking freshness, depth and sophistication. It has an open colour. We taste fine, delicate red fruit aromas, as well as balsamic notes of carrasco and cistus. It has a strong blend of grapes - the Alfrocheiro grapes endow gravity, the Tinta Grossa grapes bring juiciness and viscosity and, finally, the Baga grapes provide mineral perception and tension, giving the wine a preponderant firmness.

Rating: 18 Pts Revista Grandes Escolhas | 96 Pts Revista Vinhos
